Mapleleaf Club Jottings

The Mapleleaf Club met in the Social Credit Hall on Thursday, October 15th. A number of the most prominent members were most conspicuous by their absence.

After a short business session, a social evening under the able direction of Mr. Currie was indulged in. The games continued until the hostesses, Miss Hazel Taylor and Miss June Clifgard, announced that lunch was waiting.

After lunch each person present contributed to the spirit of the evening with a piece of poetry, a reading, etc. As the hands of the old clock pointed towards midnight the meeting broke and all persons wended their way homeward.

The next meeting will be in the form of a Halloween party to be held in the Social Credit Hall on Oct. 26. Each member is requested to be at the hall in full costume before 8 p.m.

Gardiner Sees West in Open Market Again

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, differs with those who believe western Canadian farmers never again will enjoy an open wheat market.

In his address Friday night to the young men's section of the Winnipeg board of trade, Mr. Gardiner said "statements had been made and accepted very generally 'that never again will we be able to have open market wheat in western Canada because never again will we be able to find people to take the wheat'."

"We have had to all intents and purposes an open market for wheat in the last three or four weeks," the minister declared. "Wheat has been going on the market in greater volume than previously and, oddly enough, in view of the pessimistic statements made, someone has been found to take the wheat."—Regina Leader-Post, Oct. 3rd, 1936.

St. Columbus Altar Society Notes

The regular monthly meeting of St. Columbus Altar Society was held on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 13th, at the home of Mrs. Margaret McInenly, assisted by Miss Theresa McInenly. The President, Mrs. Jacques, presided.

Due to the exceptionally fine day, a large number of members and visitors attended, all thoroughly enjoying the drive in the country.

A letter from Mrs. F. E. Bell of Sioux City, Iowa, was read, thanking the Altar Society for their farewell gift to her, and wishing to be remembered to all her Arrowwood friends.

After the business of the meeting had been conducted, the remainder of the afternoon was spent planning for the annual church, to which the members invite their husbands. Mrs. H. Hansen very kindly offered her home for this purpose, and it was decided to serve a turkey supper, and spend the evening at whist and bridge. Prizes were decided on for the highest scores.

The afternoon was concluded by the hostess serving a lovely lunch.

BUFFALO HILL NOTES

A dance will be held at the Buffalo School tomorrow night, Friday, Oct. 23rd. Everyone's welcome and popular prize.

The charivari held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen House on Thursday, Oct. 15th, for the newly wed, Forest and his Bride, was very enjoyable. Just before 9:30 p.m. the residents living in the vicinity of the above farm were startled to hear strange sounds of music. After an investigation it was discovered that between fifty and sixty neighbors, friends and others had gathered to celebrate an event which took place a short time previously, though not generally known at the time, but was more than made up by the warm reception given the victims by their well-meaning friends who, after some good entertainment, finished up by dancing until the wee small hours, ending one of those pleasantries for which the west is famous.

Complaints frequently heard about the heat, at the time when grasshoppers were active, have been forgotten since the light snowfall and cooler weather. On Wednesday morning it was 10° above zero.

QUEENSTOWN ITEMS

Between three and four hundred attended the wedding dance held last Friday in the Queenstown Hall for Mr. and Mrs. D. Osler. Quite a number from Arrowwood attended. Mr. and Mrs. Osler were presented with a purse of money.

Mr. and Mrs. McBride of Drumheller, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin. They were here to attend the 21st birth day anniversary of Miss Verna McLaughlin. She was presented with a gold wrist watch.

Mrs. McLaughlin left Monday for Drumheller where she will visit with her sister Mrs. McBride.

We are pleased to see Mrs. Pain is home from the Vulcan hospital and her many friends hope that she will now enjoy better health.

There are a considerable number of cases of flu in the district just now.

We regret to report that while cutting out of the car last Friday to attend the wedding dance, Mrs. Frank Winkler stepped in a hole and broke a bone in her foot.

The annual meeting of the Queenstown Social Credit Core was held on October 16th with a large attendance of both ladies and gentlemen. The following officers were elected:

Pres.—M. Lahd
Vice-Pres.—W. Osler
Sec.—F. R. McComber
Mrs. Hogland was elected convener of the Ladies Core, Mrs. W. Osler and Mrs. Kingsmill assistants. Mrs. Taggart secy. Mrs. Jorgensen treas., and Mr. J. Taylor was appointed auditor for the coming year.

Mr. M. Popinoff donated a bag of vegetables which were raffled off, the lucky ticket-holder being Mr. J. Taylor. The Core will meet next month in the newly acquired club rooms in the old pool hall.

Mrs. Hogland and son Gus have moved into the Nordoff store. Gus has moved his barber chair into the front part of the building.

Milo defeated Vulcan High School 27-0 in a rugby game played at Lake McGregor park on Oct. 7th, securing a safety-touch, five touchdowns and a convert.

Vulcan came back with a bang on Thanksgiving Day on their own grounds, turning the tables 29-1 on the Milo team. In justice to the Milo team it should be stated that four or five of their regular players were unable to get over to Vulcan and the team was somewhat disorganized.

The Milo team is a combination of Milo and Queenstown boys.

SHOULDICE NOTES

Coyotes are quite numerous in the district this year which is supplying sport for a number of hunters.

Mrs. G. Wilkins returned from the Holy Cross Hospital at Calgary last Saturday after spending a week there.

Big Novelty Dance at Mossleigh, Nov. 6th

In order to raise funds for operating expenses the Mossleigh Ice Wren Hockey Club and Rink are sponsoring a Big Novelty Dance to be held in the Mossleigh Community Hall on Friday, Nov. 6th. The Troubadour Band has been engaged to supply the music. Three valuable prizes will be given away to admission ticket holders. Admission 35c a person. A good time is assured to all.

Hallowe'en Party

If you're Jack Horner bring us your corner, Or even a plumb from your pie. It's not what you wear But the object you bear: I am what I am—what am I? Next Thursday on the 29th At the Brethren Church I will be seen If you want to know 'your' future fate, Be there when the clock strikes eight, Great mysteries I will unfold, Your future mate you may behold I'll stow for you some witches brew, So come and bring a friend with you.

On Thursday, Oct. 29th the Brethren Young People will hold a Hallowe'en Party in the church basement. All the young people of the community over 16 years are invited. All must come in costume or pay a fine. Don't miss the fun, scares and thrills of this party.

New Uses For Old Products

The agricultural depression which has contracted the farmers' pocket books in Western Canada almost to the vanishing point in the past five or six years may be attributed to two main causes—a drought cycle and an undisposible surplus of wheat of great proportions, the inheritance of the bountiful harvest of 1928, followed by a fair average crop the succeeding year.

The drought was a visitation of Nature itself, over which mankind could have little or no control, and it has been the sole cause of an attenuated agricultural bank account the effects of the depression would have been nearly as severe in Western Canada as they have been, for during the era of gloom the drought area shifted its local somewhat each year though, it is also true that there are some areas which have sustained the full impact for the entire period.

Over the entire depression period, however, many areas which have experienced drought have reaped some harvests, variously in degree, and had good prices for wheat prevailed, many farmers over large tracts would have reaped sufficient returns to carry them through without aid or with comparatively little assistance.

Unfortunately however, this was not the case and the average comparatively low price of farm products and particularly wheat, at times far below the cost of production, was as much a factor in creating conditions which have necessitated debt adjustment on a wide scale as was the lack of moisture and its resultant duststorms and scourge of insect pests.

Dry periods undoubtedly will come again and little can be done to circumvent their ill effects in loss of production and yield beyond perhaps a small measure of conservation, but the least of the year period will have been lost unless some consideration is given to the necessity and wisdom of devising some measures to obviate, or at least reduce, the hazards of a repetition of prices below the cost of production.

There are several directions in which consideration on this problem might well be directed, apart from the entirely popular proposal to curtail production. There is the matter, for instance, of efforts to create consumer demand in existing markets for improved and more tasty products of the grain fields, and the possibility of increasing the use of these columns, and serious consideration might well be given to the possibilities of converting products of the field to industrial uses in the domestic market.

Henry Ford demonstrated that much might be done to make agricultural products available to industry when his experiments revealed that by-products of the soy bean make excellent material for construction of certain automobile parts and accessories, and along similar lines, experimentation in the conversion of grains into alcohol for industrial use and on a commercially feasible basis should be pushed with vigor in the laboratories.

So far the conversion of grain into industrial alcohol has not proved a commercial success, but a fractional advance in the price of gasoline or a reduction of a few cents in the cost of production of alcohol from such source would place it in the field of a competitive fuel with gasoline, a commodity which is used in large quantities by the farmers themselves as well as other consumers in Western Canada.

That greater use of alcohol as a fuel is inevitable in the not far distant future is the conclusion of the "Pennsylvania Farmer" which, in a recent issue had the following to say on the subject: "The farmer has a double interest in liquid fuels. He is now a leading consumer; he may some day be an important producer. Alcohol made from farm crops can be mixed with gasoline to make a fuel which will run a combustion engine. Since the supply of petroleum cannot last forever a wider use of alcohol as a fuel is inevitable. It is being hastened by a force of foreign countries by legislation requiring, by taxation or otherwise, a mixture of alcohol with gasoline."

"Without such government intervention the blending does not occur, because gallon for gallon, gasoline is cheaper and better than alcohol. Under present conditions the effect of this legislation is to subsidize the producer of alcohol at the expense of the consumer of fuel. When producer and consumer is the same fellow it is doubtful if he wants this subsidy."

"In our country the farmer consumes a fourth of the gasoline used. If the price were raised four or five cents a gallon, the extra cost would cut the profit from corn, sugar, cane, potatoes, etc., that went into alcohol while the farmer who grew no alcohol-producing crops would be dealt with unfairly."

"Until gasoline prices advance materially it would appear that hopes for a wider use of alcohol as a fuel lie in research rather than in legislation. When alcohol can be made cheaper or better than gasoline, no law will be needed to promote its use, and until then any such law is of questionable value to farmers."

Extracting Precious Metals

A New Science In The Mining World To Assist Operators

"Mineralography," a new science in the mining world designed to assist mining operators in their work of extracting precious metals, was described and demonstrated to delegates of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy meeting at Vancouver.

In a darkened room pictures of hiding places of particles of gold among base minerals were shown, magnified many times, while Dr. H. Haycock, of the Dominion department of mines, and Dr. H. V. Warren, of the University of British Columbia, stood in the background and described the new science.

Specially constructed instruments were used to polish one specimen to the finest surface possible and these were magnified many times by powerful glasses for scientific study.

In this way, the two doctors said, the new science has already become of great assistance to the mining industry and promises to become still more valuable in determining the best treatment for gold extraction and mineral separation generally.

Claims World Undernourished

Australian Specialist Thinks More Protective Foods Should Be Produced

The world is undernourished, F. L. McDougall, Australian agricultural specialist, said in a report to the biennial general assembly of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome.

Many world agricultural problems would be solved, he said, if certain foods would increase the production of "protective foods" instead of concentrating on high wheat yields.

"Satisfactory human diet must contain sufficient quantities of the kinds of food that provide these hitherto obscure elements in nutrition," the Australian said, explaining "the foods particularly valuable in this respect are milk, cheese, butter, fresh fruit and vegetables, eggs, fish and meat."

Slippery Oath

May Be Corroborated To Comply With Statute Of Westminster

When the king takes the coronation oath at Westminster Abbey next May 12 he may use a form of words different from that of his predecessors.

It was made known that the oath has been slightly altered in order to comply with the provisions of the statute of Westminster, which changed the status of the dominions.

The new wording, evolved after consultation between ecclesiastical and constitutional authorities, will not be revealed until the full program for the coronation is issued. It is understood the coronation service will be shorter than at the coronation of King George V, because of the absence of a queen consort.

Government Still Checking Up On Estate Left By Sir John Ellerman

For three years, a small army of government clerks have been checking up the estate left by Sir John Ellerman, little-known "richest man in England's history"—and they are still hard at it.

His Majesty's government can well afford the clerks' time. It expects to collect nearly £200,000,000 (about $100,000,000), or 50 per cent. of the huge fortune, which keeps on growing.

Sir John, ship-owner, industrialist and real estate magnate, died in 1933 at the age of 71. His estate was then valued at £17,283,977 (about $86,118,850) "as far as can be ascertained." But only recently it was revalued at £56,654,984 (about $133,424,970), and even at that figure, additional property including large foreign interests was not included.

Now investigators have discovered more and more holdings. The final figure is expected to be about £200,000,000, or approximately $200,000,000. Exactly half of that goes to the government.

The British croesus left the bulk of his fortune to his son, the present Sir John Ellerman, now 27.

Already £14,600,000 has been turned over to the treasury in death duties—by far the largest sum in inland revenue department ever received from one estate. In addition, it is estimated that during his lifetime Sir John paid at least £20,000,000 in income tax and super-tax.

In The Cause Of Peace

Delegates Say There Is A Momentum Behind The Peace Movement

Mrs. John Grieve, League of Nations Society delegate to the recent peace conference at Brussels, following her return to Toronto, said that the prevailing mood of the conference was "neither optimism nor dismay, but one of determination."

People in Europe, she said, appeared to believe that war was inevitable but that the danger was not immediate.

"The idea of the congress was to bring together on a limited platform as many people as possible, to establish a central bureau in each country to effect this platform, and an international bureau to co-ordinate the work in all countries," she said.

"There is a tremendous momentum behind the peace movement if it can only be harnessed. It will not be known how successful the congress was till we see how seriously the delegates set to work when they return."

Seventy Varieties Of Maple

Sugar in Commercial Quantities
Only Obtained From One

There are over 70 varieties of maple trees in the world, but only one of the seventy yields sugar in commercial quantities. This is the famous hard or sugar maple which grows in Canada from the Atlantic Ocean to the Lake of the Woods and in the eastern United States. Its beautiful leaf is the national emblem of the Dominion. About 95 per cent of the maple products' industry in Canada is at present confined to the St. Lawrence River valley.

Thou Shalt Not Love

—A NOVEL BY—
GEORGIA GRAIG

"What was there to do? I tossed a twenty-dollar bill to one of the attendants to see that he got into his car all right. Such caution was not worth selling my hands over."

Pain tore at Starr's heart. His words were properly chosen, but there was something in his careless tone. What he really meant, it was quite plain to her, was that her honor was not worth selling his hands over! A twenty-dollar bill was nothing. Money smoothed his play-boy path and he went on his way, his hand clutched at Starr's heart. For it was quite as plain to her that he expected his money to win her. In his own way, he was her own torment.

Not for the world, though, would she have let him know she realized that. With a flash of her old bravado, she said flippantly: "And what does that make me?"

Lance's black eyebrows lifted slightly, and he smiled, with a touch of indulgence. "I hope it makes me your cavalier for the evening, at least," he said, his voice low, almost a whisper. There was a wealth of meaning in his tone which lent his innocent words a deep significance.

Starr turned away from him with a wave of revulsion. Lance Marlowe was quick-eyed; he was trained to the nuances of feminine emotion. He saw his mistake instantly, and his face darkened.

"I should have known better than to use my usual line on you. There was a touch of insolence, intended. Then he shrugged. "I suppose you're not wanting to stay any longer—now—at least I can see you to your car, get your wrap for you, or something?"

Starr cried out almost in a panic. "No—No! Nothing! And I have no intention of running away from from—oh, any or you!"

But in spite of her defiance, suddenly she was feeling from him. Anywhere to get away. She had said the most to stay, but all she really wanted to do was to get away forever from this meddling, playboy world. It was not in any way that she had expected it would be. Living out her span in drab obscurity was better—million times—than this!

Half blinded with the tears she was forcing back as she dashed up the balcony steps, she collided with someone that stopped her flight. The strong, vital body of a man. A second her face was buried against the front of a starched shirt; then she looked up, dazed.

"Starr! For Heaven's sake! Where do you think you're going? Out to beat some kind of a record?"

Michael's hands were gripping her shoulders. Michael's face beamed down at her. He was so full of his own satisfaction that he did not even notice her agitation. He could take things lightly like that, make humorous remarks, laugh when her heart was breaking!

Again she was conscious of the overpowering attraction of his presence, like an intoxicant in her blood, that sent it singing along through every vein in her body. She fought against it desperately. Why must it be like this?

Michael was so pleased that he almost hugged her. Yet his pleasure was simply that of a man who has just put over a good business deal. It was all in the head, not the heart.

He grinned, standing off to look at her with his hand cocked a little to one side.

"Pretty swell!" he commented. "You are marvelous, Starr—superb! Everything is going just as we planned, better than we planned. You'll be the talk of the town tomorrow!"

The casual cocksureness of the man! As long as his own end was served, what did he care the price a woman paid? But how could she know he was congratulating himself on his own perspicacity—and his luck!—at picking up a girl who hung out in La Luna and having her turn out to be like this as if she had been used to people of this kind all her life? Or perhaps it was her training for her "racket" that helped?

Starr's resentment raged again. Conflicting strangely with her storming emotions. She clenched her fists until the scarlet nails dug into her palms, as if she had been used to people of this kind all her life? Or perhaps it was her training for her "racket" that helped?

Starr's resentment raged again. Conflicting strangely with her storming emotions. She clenched her fists until the scarlet nails dug into her palms, as if she had been used to people of this kind all her life? Or perhaps it was her training for her "racket" that helped?

"I can't go through with it, Michael!"

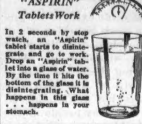

She jaw dropped, and he stared.

"Can't go through with it?" he echoed unbelievably. "But why?"

For QUICK Relief

If you suffer from headaches what you want is quick relief. For one reason, because they dissolve or disintegrate almost instantly in such moisture. (Note illustration above.)

When you take an "Aspirin" tablet it starts to dissolve almost instantly in the moisture of the mouth. And this is ready to start working almost instantly... headaches, neuritis and other pains start easing almost at once.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Try it. You'll say it's marvelous.

What's the matter? Has anything happened?

Suddenly it was he who was agitated. He saw his money-making scheme falling through because of the whim of a girl he should have known better than to have trusted in the first place. His hands tightened their grip on her shoulders, sending shooting sparks of fire through her soft flesh.

He said rapidly: "What's wrong, Starr? Haven't I done enough for you? Isn't the salary high enough? I'll raise it!"

Money! Was that all that men thought about? And this particular one probably thought she was trying to hold him up, now that he had confessed she was making good, better than he had hoped she would.

A deep, trembling shiver shook her whole body, only to be repressed. She realized only too well how hopeless it was to try to explain, to try to make him understand what this night had done to her. She had too plain a memory of the place like La Luna. He had not believed her. She had known that. All he had seen in her was a good little actress who could carry out his plans, and he was thanking his lucky stars that sometime or other she had known what was the "better things of life."

She writhed before his taunt, searching face. Dusky lashes shadowed against her ivory cheeks, hiding her passion-filled eyes from him. "Money!" she repeated dully. "That's not the reason. I've changed my mind, that's all!"

"All!" A long moment he paused. When he spoke again a harsh note had crept into his voice. A note of contempt.

"I didn't know you were a quitter, Starr."

Her vivid face flashed up to meet his gaze. What he said stung more than all that had gone before.

"So that's what you think of me?" "What else do you expect me to think?" He shrugged and a queer little quirk came around the corners of his mouth. "Or is it, perhaps, that Lance Marlowe and a queer more attractive proposition? He wouldn't!"

She stared at him, breathless in her instantaneously raging fury. (To Be Continued)

"And what is your name, my little hen?"

"Henry, sir."

"Why did you parents name you Henry?"

"The eighth, sir."

"Why has your husband been summoned?"

"I'm not quite sure, but I think a policeman held up his hand and Jack put his foot on the exasperation!"

"If you are doing business every day it is necessary to tell the public that fact."

Opening His First Parliament

King Edward Will Be Speaking To Crowded House

King Edward will open the first parliament of his reign at Westminster November 8. He will arrive in full state from Buckingham Palace to the House of Lords, and will read his speech from the throne to a chamber crowded with peers and peeresses and with the "Faithful Commons" in attendance.

The King will not wear a crown. The crown and the sword of state will be taken from St. James' Palace to the House of Lords in a state hearse, guarded by an escort of life guards, and the cap of maintenance, the other emblem of royal power, will be carried in front of the King. Not until he has been crowned at Westminster Abbey in May will King Edward wear his crown.

If he follows the example of his father, who also opened his first parliament some time before his coronation, the King will wear full-dress naval uniform for his drive from the palace, and will don heavy robes of crimson velvet edged with gold for the ceremony in the Lords, putting on the robes of an admiral when he comes to read the speech from the throne.

While he is at the House of Lords the King will carry out another ceremony of great constitutional importance. This is the signing of the royal declaration of Protestant faith, which the sovereign must make either at the opening of his first parliament or at his coronation, whichever comes first.

Another Boat Salvaged

German Battleship Taken From Scapa Flow To Singapore Yard

The former German battleship Kaiserin, salvaged from the sea bed at Scapa Flow, completed her journey from the Orkneys to the ship-breaking yard at Rosyth Dockyard. She carried a crew of 14 men, who were accommodated in huts erected on the beach, and whose duties were to attend to the pumps which kept the hulk afloat.

Like the other vessels of the scuttled fleet which have been raised and taken to Rosyth, the Kaiserin made the passage upside down, towed by Dutch tugs—Edinburgh Scotsman.

A Royal Privilege

Toronto Witness Allowed To Affirm Rather Than Take Oath

Rev. D. J. Elton took advantage of a royal privilege granted to Presbyterians 200 years ago when he appeared in women's court at Toronto. The minister expressed a wish to affirm rather than take an oath on the Bible in a bigamy case in which he was called as a witness.

"A Presbyterian and not swear on the Bible!" exclaimed Magistrate Cowan.

Told of the royal privilege, Mr. Cowan said all his life and had never heard of it. He allowed the witness to affirm rather than take an oath on the Bible in a bigamy case in which he was called as a witness.

Take courage and turn your robes which are without remedy into material for spiritual progress. (Often turn to the Lord who is watching you amid your labors and distractions. He sends you help and blesses your afflictions. This thought should enable you to bear your troubles patiently and gently, for love of Him who only allows you to be tried for your own good. Raise your heart constantly to God, seek His aid, and let the foundation stone of your consolation be your happiness in being His. All vexations and annoyances will be comparatively unimportant while you know you have a Friend who is such a Refuge.

In the course of a tribute to the effectiveness of boy scout training during a discussion of juvenile delinquency at the world conference of statisticians at Atlantic City, Dr. Amos D. AIR CELL 'A' BATTERY

The quality of radio reception largely depends on your batteries. Ask for Eveready—and be sure!

IT IS AIR CELL that has made battery radio so immensely popular these days. Air Cell—the modern battery—does away with the necessity of re-charging.

Air Cell maintains itself by simply breathing air. It sounds like a miracle and it is indeed one of Science's great achievements. Best of all, peak power level is maintained for 1000 playing hours. No dwindling of power as in other batteries.

And Layerbilt! Well—everyone knows it is the super "B" battery. It is built in tightly-packed layers and gives far longer life than the old-fashioned round-cell types. Thus you don't have to change your "B" battery as often as formerly.

This year, Eveready has eliminated the terminal posts and given you one socket—this means only one connection for each "B" battery.

For perfect team work—Air Cell plus Layerbilt.

-- SIGHTLESS --

There are a few notable instances of men and women who, deprived of their sight, have triumphed over the greatest of physical handicaps, and built up a profitable business. But their number is small.

The last census reported that of the 7,352 blind people in Canada, only 572 were gainfully employed. The great majority of the sightless are unable to earn their own living. They must depend on assistance from relatives or charity. They do not qualify for any special pension or relief rights. Our various governments give small grants to the Institute for the Blind and let it go at that.

During the last session of parliament, efforts to provide pensions for sightless people at the age of forty failed.

What of other countries? Great Britain pays ten shillings a week to every blind person of fifty years and over.

Australia pays 20 shillings a week commencing at the age of sixteen.

New Zealand, seventeen shillings and sixpence plus twenty-five per cent of the blind person's earnings, up to a maximum payment of £3,12.6, commencing at age twenty.

Sweden pays $125 a year.

Japan gives the blind a monopoly of the message business. Russia maintains special facilities.

In the United States, thirty states pay pensions varying from small sums to $100 a day. California pays $50 a month; New Hampshire, $600 a year. And the Federal Government contributes fifty-fifty with the State up to $15.00 a month.

Necessary as curtailment of public spending it, the blind have a claim upon us that cannot be denied. The new parliament should see to it that Canada is included among the nations, accepting responsibility for the care of the sightless.

The loss of which will deprive you of the ability to earn and make you wholly dependent on others for your existence.

Our Service is reasonable, and we keep in touch with those who have entrusted the safe-keeping of their sight to us.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Featured by a congratulatory telegram from His Majesty King Edward VIII, and in the presence of dignitaries of the state, outstanding members of the business and social world, railway officials and several thousand citizens, the Canadian Pacific Railway on Sunday, June 28, celebrated the 50th anniversary of the departure of the first transcontinental passenger train, from Montreal to the Pacific Coast. The first passenger train to cross the continent, entirely in Canada, left Montreal on June 28, 1886, amid the acclaim of the entire nation.

The royal message, which was the highlight of the enthusiastic anniversary celebration on June 28, was as follows: "I sincerely thank all those associated with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for their loyal assurances on the occasion of the fiftieth Anniversary of this great Railway which ever since its inception has played so notable a part in the development of the Dominion of Canada." Transmitted to the company in the name of Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., L.L.D., chairman and president, by His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir, the Governor-General of Canada. It served as the spark to fire the enthusiasm of the notable assembly of several thousand at Windsor Station.

The programme, colorful and impressive, was broadcast on a coast-to-coast network of the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, and was completely recorded in still and moving pictures. In addition to the message from His Majesty and the military ceremonies, it included a message from Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., L.L.D., chairman and president; addresses by D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the company, His Worship Mayor Camille Houde of Montreal, Hon. Marguerite Shaughnessy, who is daughter of the third president Lord Shaughnessy, P. M. B. Roberts of the Edinburgh Scotsman, D. D. Brahman of the London

Times and others. Mrs. Camille Houde, Mayors of Montreal, cut a birthday cake six feet in diameter and nine feet tall. The Victoria Rifles of Canada, which supplied the Guard of Honor when the first train for the Pacific left 50 years ago, again supplied the Guard of Honor under Colonel I. W. Eakin. The band of the regiment, in addition to its concert music, played God Save the King as the Guard presented arms when the anniversary train pulled out. The long association of the company and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was recognized by Canada's great force. A detachment of the Mounties took part in the ceremonies, and added a touch reminiscent of prairie and mountain construction days.

The celebration was continued at Ottawa and all main-line points west to Vancouver and thousands came down to the suburban stations to catch a fleeting glimpse of the decorated anniversary train.
